CITY CHAT. Imagine paying your taxes from your living room or office instead of walking into City Hall. Or checking the minutes of a council meeting instead of watching the entire thing on cable. Or finding out the dates of the next festival. Or even paying that parking citation you received last week...these are the goals of Erlanger's project, City Connection 2000.

The city of Erlanger's website at www.friendshipcity.com provides a single point of contact for citizens to obtain current information about events, operations, city ordinances, paying taxes and fees, and to make direct contact with Mayor Marc T. Otto, Sr. and City Councilmembers.

It seems the city is making effective use of technology to deliver services to citizens by establishment of its interactive website. The site was developed largely by the volunteer and discounted time of Heinz and Associates, professional website developers. It
